

Mission

We generate, curate, and disseminate free curricula and learning tools about sexual and reproductive health, including abortion, in order to transform health professions education.

We envision a health professions education system where sexual and reproductive health, including abortion, is fully integrated into the curriculum for learners across professions and disciplines.

Vision

Values Statement

Innovating Education in Reproductive Health creates, promotes, and collaborates on curricula in sexual and reproductive health, including abortion, with a focus on topics that are left out of health professions education. Through this work, Innovating Education is committed to explicitly uplifting the principles of social and health equity and justice within our sphere of influence to dismantle systems that perpetuate racism, gender discrimination and transphobia, heteronormativity, sexism, and other structures of power and oppression.

These values are incorporated into our approach to curriculum development, educational material, content dissemination, and presentation of our work. We recognize our responsibility to leverage our power in always ensuring marginalized communities in health professions education and in sexual and reproductive health are centered in our work, and we commit to continuous, critical programmatic reflection on whose voices and lived experiences are represented and whose are not. To advance these values we:

- ▶ Ensure transparency in leadership and decision-making
- ▶ Strive for mutual excellence and iterative improvement
- ▶ Continually increase the accessibility of our materials
- ▶ Ensure diverse representation in our content
- ▶ Critically consider whose expertise we incorporate into content
- ▶ Prioritize BIPOC-owned services and community-based organizations when seeking contractors or consultants
- ▶ Reflect our values across all content we generate, uplift, and curate
